Airport Authority Honors Life and Service of Pasadena Commissioner Ross Selvidge

BURBANK, Calif., October 3, 2022 — The Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Authority (BGPAA) observed a moment of silence at its meeting today in honor of Pasadena Commissioner Ross Selvidge. Selvidge passed away last Friday from an undisclosed illness.

Ross Selvidge, PhD

“Dr. Selvidge was a remarkable man,” said BGPAA President Emily Gabel-Luddy. “He was a pilot... he was an engineer... he was thorough in detail. He was constantly a good friend of the airport.”

BGPAA Vice President and fellow Pasadena Commissioner Felicia Williams spoke of Dr. Selvidge’s extensive work in Pasadena’s education, business and finance communities.

“He took his experience and background and he gave it to the public,” said Williams. “And that’s a public servant.”

Selvidge was appointed to the BGPAA by Pasadena City Council in 2015. He served for two years on the BGPAA’s Operations and Development Committee. Since 2017, Selvidge had been serving on the BGPAA’s Finance Committee.
